MEMPHIS APPEAL.

"RETRENCHMENT AND REFORM."

We were familiar with this war-cry, before we arrived at the age of manhood. It was first sounded when war to the knife was declared against the administration of John Quincy Adams, on account of the enormous expenditure of $23,000,000 (we are not sure about the figures,) per annum. It is the slogan of the Moss-troopers of every party, when out of power and denied the privilege of the flesh-pots. It rallies them against those in possession, when the carcass of the State is to be fed upon, and the vultures gather together to the feast.

Permit us a digression. We have often seen the swarms of buzzards, which, through a kind of Egyptian reverence, it is unlawful to kill, and which do the duty of scavengers around the market-houses of Charleston. When it was believed that the President would certainly be convicted, and Blasphemous Wade was prepared to sign the bond the Devil demanded, and vote for the conviction and ouster of Andrew Johnson, if his single vote was necessary to convict, the obscene brood of political harpies that lit down upon and hopped about Washington, reminded one of the buzzards of the Charleston market. A few of the same genus are fattening and growing impudent at the public expense in Memphis, where they assume the lordly airs of conquerors, and vituperate with the voluble eloquence of fish-women those who do not live by plundering the public, who remember with somewhat of indignation that they were once freemen in the land of their fathers, and who see set over them, hoisted upon the shoulders of negroes better than themselves, the pitiful adventurers that, issuing from the teeming loins of "the higher civilization," cast their way like locusts, and fatten on the little remaining substance of an impoverished land.

The delegates of the disreputable faction to which these men belong,—disreputable, because its creed and practices are alike dishonest and shameless, have had the singular audacity to proclaim that Radicalism is in favor of reform in regard to the financial measures of the Government, and of retrenchment of the public expenditures. It is the thief, crying "stop thief," and endeavoring in the confusion to escape from the police. It is sheer hypocricy, the homage that vice pays to virtue,—a bawd's profession of virtue. Corruption is the very "breath of life," which the devil "breathed into the nostrils" of Jacobinism, when he created it to be the curse of humanity and the murderer of millions. Without the infected atmosphere in which it has its being, it would die of inanition. It is the bond-slave of political jobbers, of speculators, whisky-thieves, sharpers, chevaliers d' industrie and "rings;" and to pay them it must permit them to rob the public Treasury and fleece the people. The South is a wide field, but too much impoverished to be alluring. A few only of the buzzards alight here; the main body prefer to remain in more inviting fields of action.

We need not take the testimony of enemies of Radicalism, to prove its monstrous and almost incredible abuses. Itself furnishes the proof. The New York Times of a late date says:

There is no work which the party in power could more usefully set itself to perform than the reform of the civil service of the United States. The evils of the present system are manifold, costly, and increasing. Under it the public interests are prostituted to personal favoritism and partizan zeal. Men grossly incompetent, or still more grossly dishonest, get the offices, and good and capable and honest men are shut out. The public business suffers from the ignorance, idleness, and general incapacity which prevail in too many public stations. The Treasury Department is notoriously full of persons who work less than six hours a day, and many of whom occupy a share of even this official and public time with newspapers, gossip and private affairs. The custom-houses in the great cities are crammed with pensioners upon the public, some of whom are in possession of offices that are known and acknowledged sinecures.

Here is what the Commissioner of Customs reported to the Secretary of the Treasury in submitting a plan for the prevention of smuggling:

The Government has been victimized by another most reprehensible, not to say fraudulent practice. It is known that men have been appointed as Custom-house inspectors at compensations varying from one dollar and a half to three dollars a day, who were never required to perform a single day's service, and whose only attendance at the Custom-house was for the purpose of receiving and receipting for their pay. Such appointments were made as rewards for past or expected political labors or influence, and were so understood by the appointee, who felt under no obligation, not even a moral one, to render any service to the Government whose money their consciences did not forbid them to take. I need not say that such ideas and practices are calculated to paralyze the public service and destroy its efficiency."

To this official's statement of a monstrous abuse may be added the still more monstrous and abominable frauds which have signalized the administration of the internal revenue system. To such a length have these abuses been carried, in that portion of the service which appertains to the revenue on ardent spirits, that it may be said to be presided over by two Generals—Gen. Incompetence and Gen. Grab. Whisky inspectors and collectors have conspired with whisky distillers to divide between them the property of the Government, while the patient public looks on, with mingled amazement and indignation, at the swindle.

And Mr. Schenck, of Ohio, in his speech on the Internal Revenue bill, reported by him, showed, the Times says:

That the great evil of inefficiency and corruption among the agents of the Government is traceable to a single source—want of responsibility at Washington. The Commissioner of Internal Revenue, the Secretary of the Treasury, the President and the Senate have each and all a voice in determining the appointment and removal of inspectors and collectors, and this division of power, as has been proven, makes it almost impossible to effect the discharge or punishment of an official, though known to be a rascal and a defrauder of the Government.

Mr. Schenck cites a fact that tells the whole story. The Commissioner of the Revenue long ago recommended the removal of twenty-seven inspectors and collectors. The Secretary of the Treasury gave the recommendation a qualified indorsement. What the President might have done, if entirely free to act, we can not say; but the Tenure-of-Office Law was pleaded in bar of action upon his part. He did, however, temporarily suspend one officer, and recommended the Senate to concur in the removal of that one and several others. But the Senate was too much occupied with other business to give the subject consideration.

The consequence was, that not one of the twenty-seven was removed, and but one suspended from office.

Now, there is not a corrupt scoundrel accepting as the agent of the Government in the collection of this tax, who does not know that he can engage in the most infamous conspiracies to defraud the Government with impunity, and that the chances of his removal, as power to remove is now divided, are as one to a hundred. He can afford to take a slight a risk in view of the enormous wealth that may be had by a little finesse and a confidential understanding with the manufacturers.

There is bribery enough at Washington, and money is lavishly expended to purchase votes. There is a certain percentage of purchaseable scoundrels in every party; and in every faction it is very large. There is no danger that the inquiries of the Board of Managers will be indiscreetly pushed too far. Whatever the measure that is to be engineered through Congress, it is Radical votes that must be had for it. There will be no retrenchment and reform until these men are swept out of power, and the distresses of the people, which must come upon them sooner or later, compel a great reduction of the revenues, and the substitution of economy for extravagance and honesty for fraud, in every branch of the public service.

Grant's Acceptance of Presents from Everybody—A Dangerous Position for a President to be in.

From the St. Paul Pioneer.]

There is one feature of Gen. Grant's character—or, rather, one of his practices—that has not been made the subject of comment; because as long as he kept out of the political ring everybody was disposed to treat him with great consideration, on account of his position and assumed services. But in choosing a President all the weaknesses of candidates are scanned with critical, if not with jealous eyes, and every mark of unfitness for the high office becomes conspicuous. His easy practice of putting himself in the way where presents are offered, and his free habit of accepting them, is now attracting abundant comment. It is a scandalous habit. It places an officer under too many obligations to private individuals. It creates strange and dangerous fellowships. It is one to which he should be in a position free from corrupt approach. There is not a public man in the country who has ever placed himself in his situation, aside from Gen. Grant, if we except the corrupt Radical rascals about Washington, and some who were in the army. A truthful writer, J. C. K. Forest, a former editor of the Chicago Tribune, describes this practice of Grant's as follows:

Grant is known to be a very self-absorbed, selfish, and grasping man. He takes everything that is presented to him, no matter by whom, or what the supposed consideration. Rich men of the national bank and bondholder stripe have presented him with houses, bonds, and stocks. Sporting men have presented him with horses. Gamblers have presented him with billiard tables. Dog fanciers have presented him with pups. Theater managers constantly present him with dead-head tickets. Harness makers have presented him with saddles and harness. Carriage makers have presented him with carriages. Russell Jones and Washburne knew his weak point when they presented him with $5000 of stock in the Chicago Horse Railway Company. Even poor cardwriters present him with all the visiting cards he uses—for which they get in return letters of thanks in very indifferent English. In fine, "all is fish that comes to Grant's net."

When some wealthy men in New York, shortly after President Johnson's accession to office, tendered him a valuable carriage, the President declined the present, because it would be an impropriety for him to accept private gifts. Gen. Grant had no such nice sense of propriety. He has received presents of all sorts, in every variety of property, and he saves them well. Bonds, moneys, libraries, houses and lots, horses, carriages, billiard tables, and many smaller things, amounting in their total value to hundreds of thousands of dollars, are the evidences that he has preserved of his want of delicacy, and of a nice sense of what is becoming in a man high in station, with favors to grant and power to exercise. This is not the worst of it. These gifts are the actual fruit of corruption and unlawful practices, or of business speculations that nearly approach such things. The money with which they were purchased came from the contractors and shoddy thieves, the cotton thieves, the army and navy thieves; the men who furnished the soldiers with mouldy hard bread and maggotty bacon to eat, and with paper-soled shoes to wear; the bond thieves, who lent the Government greenbacks when gold was 283, and demand their pay in gold when it was 140; the tariff, the iron and the whisky rings, and the scoundrels generally, who have amassed vast wealth by plundering the treasury of the people.

It is this sort of folks to whom, by accepting their presents, Gen. Grant has bound himself inextricably. How can he, for shame, choke off from the Treasury a robber whose arm is in the vault up to the elbow, and who has just presented him with a span of horses or a package of greenbacks.

The worst men in the country—the spoliators of the Treasury—the robbers of the people's taxes—the corrupters of public morality—have already propitiated his favor by gifts; and by his acceptance of what they gave him, he has disarmed himself of all the power he might have possessed to thwart their schemes of plunder. Let this be thought of when taxpayers are asked to "vote for Grant."

We have been told of very discreditable things that were done with the knowledge of Grant, by one for whose acts he was responsible, during the war, at or in the neighborhood of Holly Springs. The house of Dr. Poynter has been named as the scene of one of these exploits, a successful raid on the silver of his table.

We shall be obliged to those persons who know the facts in respect to these alleged plunderings, if they will furnish us with verified statements in writing, with all the details of time, place and circumstances, and an account of the appropriated property. Without these, we do not deem it fit that we should endorse the accounts as true. But we should like to know the truth and have the evidence of it.

Noon Dispatches.

NEW YORK, July 13.—Letters from Shanghai, of May 20th, state that the frigate Shenandoah had returned from her mission, in search of facts relating to the destruction of the American schooner Gen. Sherman. It appears that the Sherman had been attacked on the coast of Corea, and returned a fire, when she was assailed and captured, blown up, and all on board perished.

Five hundred Mormons arrived from Europe yesterday en route for Utah. One thousand others will soon arrive.

St. Patrick's Church was consecrated yesterday. A large number of Bishops were present.

A Washington special says Saturday's session was lively. The House was engaged on the bill to reduce the army, which means to get rid of certain Democratic officers. The Senate had before it the Freedmen's Bureau sham, and a bill to throw out Southern votes.

Blair's letter to Broadhead was twice read. Thad. Stevens denounced it as open rebellion.

Boutwell and Morgan indulged in some sharp personalities. Butler was also officious, and Mullins, the Tennessee constable, made, as usual, an ass of himself.

AN EXPRESS ROBBERY FRUSTRATED.

A Daring Attempt.

Two Men Wounded.

From the Cincinnati Commercial, 11th.]

The world over, there is probably no neighborhood that furnishes more thieves, counterfeiters and murderers than that in and about the town of Seymour, Ind. For years it has been the headquarters of as dangerous gangs of cut-throats, "shovers" and makers of the "queer," and "crossmen" generally, as ever went unhung. It would appear as though they have no laws there, or, having laws, no men elected to see them enforced.

Milder cases of robbery are not exciting enough for the gangs that meet at Seymour and plan their jobs. They prefer throwing a railroad train from the track, and doing business in wholesale. They turn up their noses at the idea of a small "swag." They never touch anything less than thousands, and, ordinarily, nothing less than ten thousand dollars. Their last capture, as our readers will remember, was $96,000, which they took from a train that was approaching Seymour from Louisville.

In their last attempt, which was made at about nine o'clock yesterday morning, they were fortunately frustrated, although in a rather bungling manner. The affair happened in this manner: There had been another gathering of well-known thieves in Seymour, and it became evident that they were contemplating another express robbery. A few days since James Flanders, an engineer of the Ohio and Mississippi Railroad was enabled to gain their confidence, and promised to stand in with them in the robbery, which was planned to be made on his train, when it should reach Brownstown, eleven miles west of Seymour, on his way to Cincinnati from St. Louis, at 1 o'clock yesterday morning. The plan was that they were to come upon him suddenly while he stood near the engine, which would be taking in water, overpower him, apparently, take possession of the engine and express car, uncoupling them from the rest of the train and running them off, taking with them the messenger and his safes.

In order to secure the money without running risk of being shot by the messenger, they proposed, after going a certain distance, to force the messenger to throw the safes out, by threatening to run the engine and express car back, start them at full speed, desert them, and dash them into the passenger coaches, thus crushing him to death, in company with the passengers. Having obtained his points relative to this proposed night picnic and pleasure trip extraordinary, Flanders acquainted the Adams Express Company with them, in ample time for the arrangement of a plan for the capture of the party of devils—six in number.

So it happened that as the train stopped at Brownstown, yesterday morning, there were six men, armed to the nose, guarding the treasure. Three of these were behind the wood, in the tender, and three were behind boxes in the express car. It would not have answered to make any demonstration upon the robbers at Brownstown, with the aid of a large force of train men and passengers, for they would have fled. The only way to capture them was to let them take and enter the car, and then shoot them down.

Therefore, when the train stopped at Brownstown, and six men, with revolvers in their hands, and black masks over their faces, surrounded and boarded the engine, there was no resistance offered—no cry raised. The engineer quietly succumbed, with two or three revolvers at his head, and allowed them to board the engine and throw the fireman off, without raising his voice in remonstrance.

From the passenger coaches there came no sign of alarm, and all was silent within the express car. Thinking they had things all their own way, they put on steam, after uncoupling the train, and taking passage on the engine, started off at the rate of twenty miles an hour. When they stopped, after going about five miles, the great mistake occurred. The original plan of threatening the messenger was not carried out, and the thieves prepared to enter the car.

Here was an opportunity of esging them in the car and slaughtering them. Instead of doing this, the guards, in the great excitement of the moment, commenced shooting as soon as a head was shown at the door, and fired a dozen shots at random, without touching anybody, as far as is known.

The guards on the tender did better, shooting the leader of the "mob," Val. Ellis, or Elliott, as he is called, and disabling him by a wound in the shoulder. Taken thus by surprise, and of course greatly astonished, the robbers were still plucky enough to stand their ground for a moment and discharge a dozen balls into the car, without hurting anybody. They then retreated and made their escape, with the exception of Elliott, who was captured by George Flanders.

Then occurred another mistake—and a brutal one. George Flanders was walking up to the express car, from the engine, after the robbers had fled, when some fool in the car, who ought to be made an example of for his idiocy, shot at him, thinking he was a robber. The ball struck his knee, shattering it, and laming him for life.

After all this excitement, the engine and express car were backed to Brownstown, whence the train was brought on to Cincinnati. Upon its arrival here, Elliott was taken to the Bremen street stationhouse, and Flanders to the hospital.

COLLECTION OF RECORDS OF DECORATION OF SOLDIERS' GRAVES.

The following has just been issued at the headquarters of the Grand Army of the Republic, Washington, June 25:

General Orders No. 14.

The Commander-in-Chief calls attention to the following Congressional action with regard to the memorial ceremonies of the 30th ult.:

The Congress of the United States, in the House of Representatives, June 22, on motion of Mr. Logan—

Resolved, That the proceedings of the different cities, towns, etc., recently held in commemoration of the gallant heroes who have sacrificed their lives in defense of the Republic, and the record of the ceremonial of the decoration of the honored tombs of the departed, shall be collected and bound under the direction of such person as the Speaker shall designate, for the use of Congress.

EDWARD MCPHERSON,
Clerk of the House.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 22.

Frank Moore, editor of the Rebellion Record, is hereby appointed under this resolution.

SCHUYLER COLFAX,
Speaker House of Representatives.

In order to make successful this effort to perpetuate the record of a just tribute to our patriotic dead, department and post commanders will forward to these headquarters everything pertaining to the ceremonies alluded to which can aid to complete the work proposed—newspaper paragraphs, editorial and reporters' accounts, and also manuscript copies of addresses and observations which may not have been printed. By order of

JOHN A. LOGAN,
Commander-in-Chief.

There is no generous Confederate soldier who will not commend the Congress of the United States for providing decent interment for the remains, and honoring the memories, of the soldiers of the Union, who fell fighting under the flag of the country. If the South had won its independence, we are proud enough of it to believe that it would have gathered the remains of the invaders whose blood had reddened its soil, and given them decent burial, and permitted the country in whose cause they fell to establish cemeteries and there gather their remains together. The enmities of the generous end at the grave of their object; and one of the privileges of a soldier is to pay respect to the remains of the enemy whose courage constitutes his own glory. If the people of the South, having conquered, had not respected the enemy's dead, and gathered their bones together and interred them with pious care, we should have been ashamed of them and held them dishonored.

The people of the South are taxed jointly with the people of the North, for all that re-interment of the soldiery of the North costs. They are to be taxed for the expenses to be incurred under the resolution which we have copied here.

But the Congress of the Northern States and the people of the North care no more for the bones of our dead heroes than for the bones of the animals that are ground into powder to fertilize their fields. Their hate pursues the dead into the pits from which their bones protrude; and yet they propose to us to love the Union.

It is so much the better. We would not have them generous and of a noble temper; for then we might think that we had been in the wrong in endeavoring to separate from them.

ARKANSAS.

—The Helena Clarion of the 9th says: The 4th was celebrated here by a "perseshun" of about 763 (average) field hands, worth under the old regime perhaps $1250 each, but now worth less.

MURDER OF COL. ASHBY.

Particulars of the Affair.

We take the following particulars of the killing of Col. Ashby from the Knoxville Press and Herald of Saturday:

The difficulty between Col. H. M. Ashby and E. C. Camp terminated yesterday in the death of Col. Ashby. It appears that Col. Ashby went into Camp's office, on Main street, at about five o'clock yesterday afternoon, and after some conversation, Camp proposed to go out in the street and settle the difficulty. Accordingly they went out, and when at the corner of Crooked street, Col. Ashby turned to go down towards the river, but Camp refused to go. A scuffle ensued, when Camp drew his pistol and shot Col. Ashby through the head. Col. Ashby fell at once, and after he had fallen, Camp fired two more shots, one taking effect in the breast and the other in the mouth. Camp then walked off and was met by Sheriff Bearden. He was taken before Esq. Jorgulman and examined. The testimony of Mayor Bearden and Mr. Rule was taken in regard to the previous difficulty, and he was discharged upon $5000 bail, to appear at the next term of the Circuit Court. His bondsmen are George Andrews, William Rule, M. L. Patterson and M. J. Childress.

THE INQUEST.

The body of Col. Ashby remained where it fell, surrounded by quite a crowd, until about 6 o'clock, when Esquire Jorgulman, acting as Coroner, summoned a jury of inquest.

The body was lying upon the pavement with the head upon the curbstone and the hands crossed upon the breast. The face was powder burned, as was also the breast. A Derringer pistol, loaded and uncocked, lay by the feet of the corpse, and the cane of the deceased was by his side.

After examining the body, the jury withdrew to Esquire Barry's house, and the body was cared for by Col. Ashby's friends.

The evidence at the inquest was as follows:

Thomas Cain stated that he saw the whole affair. He was walking with Ashby and as they passed Camp's office Col. Ashby said: "Here's a man I had a difficulty with yesterday and I propose to go in and settle the thing right now." I told him he had better not, but he said he didn't want any enemies or friends without he knew who they were, or something to that effect. The two Camps and Clotworthy were playing some game. Ashby went in and I followed him. When I got in he had said something, and Camp got up and insulted Ashby in the middle of the room. Says he, "Ashby I don't want any fuss, but if you want to fight this thing out, you and I can go out on the street and settle this matter." I said, "Gentlemen, this sort of talk looks like somebody was going to get killed." Camp said, "I don't know you," and Ashby introduced us. He introduced me as having been in the Federal army, which I never was. Then Clotworthy went off. I called him back and told him he ought to stop this. He said he would look for a policeman, and went off again. Then Camp said, "Gentlemen, you stay here, and Col. Ashby and I will settle this difficulty." They walked along making gestures at each other. Ashby turned toward the river but Camp kept on and Ashby came back. Ashby threw his hand against Camp. Camp took hold of Ashby's stick. A scuffle ensued and lasted two or three seconds. Camp drew his pistol and shot Ashby. Ashby fell at once. Young Camp and I were looking at it. After Ashby fell, he had his hands crossed and Camp went up and pulled his hands apart and fired again. I think he fired twice. I think he had got Ashby's pistol in the scuffle, and after he had fired the last time he threw the pistol at him, and pushed in his hat back on his head and walked off.

Wesley Stewart—Was at Baxter's office. Baxter was busy and I had to wait. Some one said, "Those men are fussing." I went to the door. They were walking near the brick house. Ashby started towards the river. Camp walked forward, and then Ashby came forward, and they sort of locked shoulders. Ashby threw up his arm—he whirled around and stopped. Ashby threw his hand up in Camp's face. Camp threw it off. Camp had his back to me, and had his hand in his pocket. Ashby had his hand behind him. He drew it out and Camp held it, and then Camp threw up his hand and I heard the pistol, and Ashby fell. Camp fired twice after he fell and then threw the pistol back at him. I did not see Ashby make any demonstration by drawing a pistol. Camp shot him twice after he fell.

The Jury then retired and in a few minutes brought the following:

VERDICT.

STATE OF TENNESSEE, KNOX COUNTY.

We, being duly elected, empannelled and sworn, and charged by R. D. Jolesman, acting as Coroner of Knox county, as a jury of inquest to inquire how, when and in what manner H. M. Ashby came to his death, on our oaths do say that one E. C. Camp, on the 10th day of July, 1868, in the county of Knox, did shoot and kill the said H. M. Ashby by firing at and shooting him three times with a pistol, against the peace and dignity of the State.

Given under our hands, this 10th day of July, 1868.

THE PARTIES.

Col. Ashby, the deceased, was, about thirty-two or thirty-three years of age. He belongs to the family that became illustrious, during the war, in the names of Dick and Turner Ashby, of Virginia. At the outbreak of the war he was in Knox county, temporarily residing here. Like other young men of that age he sought the saddle and the sword. He became Colonel of the 2d Tennessee cavalry, and in that capacity, surrendered with his command to Gen. Sherman. We leave others to give a fuller notice.

His slayer, E. C. Camp, is a lawyer by profession, and for some three years has lived in Knoxville. He is a man of no character, and his standing among the

NEW ORLEANS, July 13.—Warmouth, the new Governor, was inaugurated today, in the Hall of the House of Representatives, and in the presence of both Houses. The lobbies were densely packed. The oath was administered by the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court. A number of outgoing and incoming officials were on the platform. The inaugural was brief, well written, but not very explicit as to his future course. He says he refrains at this time from entering into any discussion of important measures; however he will take measures to repress the lawlessness and disorder now rife in the State. We want peace and order, without which we can have no prosperity.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—Trumbull, from the Judiciary Committee, reported a bill in relation to corporations, and bill relating to pending indictments in United States Courts in the late rebel States, and bill authorizing the temporary supplying of vacancies in the Executive Departments, with amendments.

McDonald introduced a bill for the relief of loyal citizens of Arkansas, and for taking the census of that State. The chair appointed Sherman, Morrill, of Maine, and Buckalew a Committee of Conference on the bill.

The Senate then resumed the discussion of the funding bill.

During the discussion, Morton said the 5-20s should be paid in currency.

Fessenden expressed a contrary opinion, and advocated adherence to the Republican platform.

Conness thought the Democratic platform should be met now and faith in the Government vindicated.

Nelson offered a substitute for the third section, looking to the issue of fifty year 5 per cent. bonds, the bondholders to pay 1 of 1 per cent. taxes and that a certain increasing amount of the public debt shall be paid each ten years, beginning with ten millions at the end of the first ten years.

He moved the previous question, which was seconded, and the joint resolution passed by a vote of 94 to 34.

Sessions for debate only were ordered for every evening this week.

The Senate's bill for discontinuing the Freedmen's Bureau, was taken up and amended by making the discontinuance absolute on the 1st of January next. Passed.

The Committee on Elections reported the credentials of Nathaniel Boyden and Oliver S. Dockery, the former was member of the North Carolina Confederate State Legislature, and the latter served in the Confederate States army. The political disabilities they incurred had been removed by Congress, and the Committee recommended that the oath prescribed for persons whose disabilities had been removed should be administered, which was done, and Boyden and Dockery took seats.

The House went into a Committee of the Whole on the Tax bill, limiting the general debate to two hours.

COTTON BOLL.—From Mr. N. G. Wormeley we have received a cotton boll of very good size and healthy appearance. It was grown on Mr. W.'s plantation, near Austin, Tunica county, Miss.

GAVE BOND.—Constable McFall gave the required and satisfactory bond yesterday, and was commissioned as a regular Constable by the County Commissioners.

AN ATTEMPT TO ROB the Merchants' National Bank was made yesterday—at least so we were told by a policeman, but on going thither found the counters still there—a proof in our mind that the rumor was false.

MEETING OF ISRAELITES.—A meeting of all the Israelites of the city of Memphis and vicinity, irrespective of party, will be held at the Memphis Club Hall on Wednesday evening next at 7½ o'clock, for the purpose of considering the merits of Gen. U. S. Grant's order No. 11, and taking action on the same.

WE WILL BET A NEW HAT that nowhere in all the elegant hat stores of Memphis can finer, more stylish or fashionable tiles be bought than at the establishment of Messrs. Francisco & Wiggin—who beg leave to remind their friends that they are closing out their old stock previous to receiving their new invoices of fall goods. Call and examine their stock before purchasing elsewhere, as they guarantee to satisfy the most fastidious taste.

THE MYSTERY SOLVED.—Notwithstanding the inuendoes of certain Radical papers whose scalawag editors are scared nearly into fits, about the mysterious midnight parade, we are prepared to prove that the riders were neither Ku-klux nor rebels, nor even Loyal Leaguers as we were led to believe, but simply the Daughters of Zion taking a moonlight ride. The reason why they rode straddle was the impossibility of getting so many side-saddles from any livery stable in town except Maj. Rawlins', at the Overton stables, and woman-like they never thought of going there.

CORRECTION.—Our attention was called to an omission in our report of the speech of Gen. Pike at the Democratic Club on Saturday night, which makes the General appear to say something directly the opposite of what he really did. After the sentence, "It will not require much to completely revolutionize this State," should have ensued, "and drive the Radical party from its boundaries." This portion of the sentence shows to which party reference is made in the ensuing remark: "A few more such uprisings and outpourings as we had on Thursday night would do it effectually—for every Northern man among us who had fraternized with this party would leave it—they would feel that they could no longer have anything in common with it, and would abandon it completely."

IT AFFORDS us much pleasure to call the attention of our readers to the letter of Mr. R. C. Brinkley, President of the Memphis and Little Rock Railroad, to be found in our columns of to-day. The matter referred to serves to illustrate to our people the absolute importance to their interests, both now and hereafter, of giving their patronage to such reliable home institutions; thereby centralizing the surplus capital of their section at their own home, and in the hands of men of known integrity and business capacity, which will be by them invested from time to time, in such manner as will tend to furnish material aid in the development of the agricultural, commercial and mechanical prosperity of our section. We sincerely trust that our people may be properly impressed with the importance to themselves of their action in matters of such moment, and that we may have a change from what has heretofore been a rule with them, such as will, through their patronage, build up and foster within our midst many such solvent and reliable institutions as the Carolina Life Insurance Company.

A BLOODY RECORD.

Four Probably Fatal Shooting Affrays.

Three of the Victims Negroes.

Yesterday and the day before were bloody days in the Memphis calendar, no less than four murderous shooting affrays having occurred during the thirty-six hours ending at nine o'clock last night. The first of these was the shooting of a negro named Wash Peeples, of whose operations in the confidence line, we gave an account on Saturday last, by Officer Sauerman, under the following circumstances: Sauerman had arrested Peeples for a misdemeanor, on Commerce street, about 10 o'clock in the morning, and on the way to the Station-house, down Third street, as they passed the alley between Market and Exchange, the prisoner broke away from the officer, and rushing into the alley, seized a billet of wood, which was lying convenient, and made at him with it. Sauerman had drawn his weapon, as the negro broke, and when he turned with the club, fired at him, the negro not being more than a pace from him, when he did so. The bullet entered the body just below the ribs on the left side, and passed into the bowels. The moment that the shooting was done, Sauerman left the wounded man and reported to headquarters what he had done and was placed in arrest by Capt. Simonds. Meanwhile the wounded man, after having been seen by numerous people going to church, was removed to the house of Dr Harris, in the neighborhood, where his wound was dressed. At six o'clock yesterday afternoon it was thought that he could not possibly live through the night. He is a most villainous negro, and his death would be a benefit to the community. Sauerman was arrested on a State warrant yesterday morning, and after a careful examination was discharged.

—About midnight on Sunday night, as a negro, known as Ben. Strange, was returning home from church, crossing the Jackson street bayou bridge, he was accosted by two men, and being frightened, turned to run. As he did so, several shots were fired at him by his pursuers, two of the balls taking effect—one in the groin, and the other entering the right shoulder and coming out just below the nipple. These wounds would seem to have been enough to stop most men, but Strange was able to make his way on foot and unaided to the corner of Third and Overton streets, where he fell, right in front of his own house, and lay for sometime unconscious, having fainted from exhaustion. He was found in this condition about one o'clock and moved into the house, where he survived long enough to give his wife the above statement, and to say that he thought one of the men that shot him was named Martin Griffin. On her affidavit, and from some attendant suspicious circumstances, a man named Griffin was arrested yesterday morning and carried before 'Squire Griffith, but a preliminary examination was postponed until to-day at 10 o'clock. We were told by the wife of the murdered man that Griffin took her husband for a man named Wash Lott, who had been committing some depredations on his place. We forbear comment until the matter has been examined into.

—The next tragedy on the list is the shooting of Mr. Charles Aldridge, by P. N. Burgett, Esq., the particulars of which were thus detailed to the Evening Ledger: "It seems that Mr. Burgett had been absent during the morning. Returning, he found that Aldridge, who was doing business for him as his overseer, had not issued their rations to the hands. Burgett requested him to do so at once; remarking that if it was neglected the hands would become dissatisfied and leave. Aldridge appeared to hesitate. Burgett then told him if he did not wish to attend to his business he would settle with him and he could quit. Aldridge sprang to his gun, which was sitting in the corner of the room, and seized it, exclaiming, "You d—d son of a b—h, I'll settle with you right now." As Aldridge turned with his gun, Burgett, who had his gun in his hand, fired and killed him instantly—the whole charge striking him in the breast. This is Mr. Burgett's statement of the case. He passed through town this morning on his way to Marion to surrender himself to the authorities. Col. O. P. Lyles, of the firm of Brown & Lyles, of this city, went over to defend him.

—The fourth, and up to present writing the last, occurred yesterday evening in Fort Pickering, and is to a certain extent wrapped in mystery. About 5 o'clock p.m. two negroes, known as Fred Jones and Hiram Tolman, were seen walking together, engaged in earnest conversation. Tolman seemed to be very much excited, and gesticulated violently. All at once he jumped back several steps, drew a repeater, and commenced firing on Jones, who fell to the ground after the fourth shot, and Tolman then fled. The Police were promptly on the spot, and took care of the wounded man, who was found to be shot in four places, two of the wounds being considered mortal. At the last accounts (8 o'clock p.m.) he was considered to be dying. The Police arrested and carried to the Second District station, a negro whom they took to be Tolman, but who, on examination, proved to be the wrong man. At eight o'clock no further arrest had been made.

This, we hope, ends the chapter for the day.

THE LATE SOUTH STREET SUICIDE. Under this heading the Evening Ledger of yesterday has a communication from Mrs. Eleanor Bowman, the relict of the suicide, in which that lady undertakes to say that the account given in the APPEAL some days since of the suicide of Bowman, contains "many misstatements," and goes on to give a version of the affair, which differs substantially from that given by the APPEAL in only one particular—the suicide having been committed with strychnine instead of laudanum—the balance of the APPEAL's account being substantiated in every respect. Of course we could know nothing of the little domestic arrangements which the bereaved widow so pathetically details. Possibly another error may have crept into our account, as we did state that the wife was young and lovely. As to the introductory from the "local" of the Ledger, who so patly "pol-parots" the charge of "misstatements," we will say that his assertion that he published a "short notice" of the suicide the next evening, is not true. He knew nothing about the affair until he read it in the APPEAL, and his "short notice" was made the evening therafter—an easy way to pick up local items. Not only was the Ledger indebted to us for the item, however, but the Coroner himself knew nothing of it until he read it in our columns.

Opinion of Chancellor W. M. Smith.

An Injunction not Ordered.

Chancellor W. M. Smith yesterday delivered the following decision:

State of Tennessee ex rel. Burditt vs. George W. Waldran.

I shall not undertake in this case to give in detail the reasons upon which my conclusions are based, but I shall briefly state the conclusions, and these are:

1st, That this proceeding is authorized by chap. 8 page 629 of the Code. The writ of quo warranto not being in use in this State, (2d Meigs, Dig. page 858), a bill in the Chancery or Circuit Courts under said chapter is the remedy for the removal of a public officer, who is illegally holding and exercising an office And this applies to Judges of Courts as well as to other officers. I am inclined to think, however, and I believe I so held in the case of the State ex rel Caldwell vs. Comer, that the bill should be filed by the Attorney-General.—Code. Sec 3412, 8413. The bill may be amended in this respect if desired.

2d, I am of opinion that the Municipal Court is a superior Court in the sense Sec. 3909 of the Code, and therefore, that no person is eligible to the office of Judge of said Court unless he shall have been a citizen of this State three years immediately preceding his appointment or election. It is true said Court is not a court of general jurisdiction as is the Circuit Court. Its jurisdiction is special and limited, and its Judge has not some of the powers which the Judges of other superior Courts have. It is an inferior Court in the sense of sec. 1, art. vi of the Constitution, that is, inferior to the Supreme Court, as are the Circuit and Chancery Courts. But it is superior in the sense that no other court, except the Supreme Court, can correct its errors. The Circuit Court is a court of general jurisdiction, and has power to correct the errors of inferior jurisdiction by appeal, and certiorari, but it has no such power over this Court. By sec. 46 of the act creating it, appeals and writs of error lie directly from it to the Supreme Court. It also has appellate jurisdiction, by appeal or certiorari, over Justices. Sec. 83.

Then if the error of this Court can only be corrected by the Supreme Court, how can it be inferior to any other court except that? That it has not as great jurisdiction, and that its Judge has not as great powers as some others, can make no difference. See on this subject 1st Turner's History of a Law Suit, sec. 743, 751, inclusive, and authorities therein quoted. It follows, therefore, that the demurrer must be overruled, and the defendant required to answer.

Right here, I might stop; but this would leave untouched the most important question, viz: whether an injunction should issue in such cases, and, if so, when? I have not had time to examine into the practice on the writ of quo warranto; but, if I mistake not, there was no restraint on the exercise of the duties of the office, in cases of quo warranto, until a final determination that the defendant was illegally holding the office. 3d Blackstone, 263. And the practice of the Court of New York on proceedings in the nature of quo warranto, does not authorize the issuance of a preliminary injunction until the question is finally determined. Abbot's New York Dig., vol. 3, page 361.

That the Court has the power, in a proper case, to award an injunction under our Code, section 3417, cannot be doubted; but I think it equally certain that an injunction should not be granted on the ex parte statements of the bill. The defendant should always be permitted to answer. The duties of public officers should be discharged. While this is true of all officers, it applies with much greater force to the Judges. Suspend their functions and the Courts are suspended. No receiver can be appointed, no temporary officer selected, hence the case should be very strong—so strong as to leave no doubt of the necessity of such action, before an injunction should issue. Even if the answer should admit, or the proof disclose ineligibility only, I think an injunction should not issue (because the acts of a de facto judge are good) until the question can be settled by final decree. But if yield to the force of the argument, that when the answer admits or the proof clearly discloses, not only ineligibility, but corruption or malfeasance in office, the injunction power should interpose.

I would not be understood for a moment as holding that a Judge may be restrained under this chapter of the code from discharging his duties on the ground of corruption in office. The remedy for that is by impeachment. But if a judge is illegally in office, he may be removed under this chapter; and if, during the progress of the cause, the Court should be satisfied that he is illegally in office, and at the same time is discharging the duties of the office corruptly, then an injunction should issue. The illegal holding gives the power to issue the injunction, and the corrupt action is the reason why it should issue. I hope I am not misunderstood on this important and delicate subject.

It follows from these views that an injunction will not be ordered now, though the demurrer is overruled.

In the order on the bill, when it was presented to me, I directed that the defendant should only answer that portion of the bill which alleges his ineligibility. I am now of opinion that he should answer the whole bill; and it is so ordered. The motion for an injunction may be renewed at some future day, fixing the day so as to give defendant a reasonable time to answer. Either party may introduce proof on the motion.

POLICE ITEMS.

—There were six arrests in the Second District up to 8 o'clock last night, of which two were on severe charges.

—W. Gaines (negro) was committed yesterday for having raped a little negro girl, the daughter of Anthony Motly, another negro, some two months since. On examination the case was discharged.

—John Cassidy was jugged for horse-stealing. He will have an examination to-day.

TO PLANTERS.—We would respectfully direct the attention of our planting interests to an advertisement which appears in another column, headed "Cotton Gins." Messrs. Allison Brothers call attention to the improved gins of Messrs. E. Carver & Co., which stand unrivalled for beauty of the work turned out by them, as well as simplicity of construction and durability of material. George Crockett, Esq., formerly of the house of Paul & Crockett, will be found with Messrs. Allison Brothers. Mr. Crockett is too well known for us to eulogize him. Those needing gins will do well to bear in mind that the E. Carver & Co.'s improved gins can be had only at Messrs. Allison Brothers, No. 270 Front street.

TUKA, MISS., July 10, 1868.

To Col. J. H. Edmondson, Gen'l Agent Carolina Life Insurance Company:

My Dear Sir: I see by reference to advertisement of Carolina Life Insurance Company, that you are its General Agent, and being desirous at all times to foster the advancement of the interests of reliable home institutions, it affords me pleasure to testify that your company promptly and timely rendered material aid, in the form of a loan of money, to complete the eastern division of the Memphis and Little Rock Railroad. I think companies evincing such a public spirit should receive the reward of public approbation. Very Respectfully,

THE COUNTY COMMISSIONERS

Meeting of the Board Yesterday.

The County Printing no Longer a Monopoly.

White Men to Have a Chance.

The Board of Commissioners for Shelby county met persuant to a resolution of adjournment. Present and presiding, Hon. B Lewis, President of the Board, and Assistant Commissioners Merriman, White, Hack and Louis.

At the order of President Lewis, the following document was taken from the files and read. It was offered by Commissioner Merriman at the April term, and passed:

WHEREAS, There are two Republican newspapers, the Bulletin and Post, now published in the city of Memphis; and

Whereas, We believe that the good of the Union cause requires that both journals should be sustained by Union men; and

Whereas, The entire patronage of the county of Shelby has heretofore been given to the Post, and also the whole legal printing of the District by State law; therefore be it

Resolved, By the Board of Commissioners of Shelby county that the county printing and all necessary publications by this Board be given from this time to the Memphis Daily Bulletin for the ensuing six months.

For the above the President offered the following as a substitute:

Resolved, As it is the imperative duty of this Board to consult economy and to save the public money by all the means in its power, that the public printing for the county be let until the first Monday in January, to the lowest bidder for the same; and that bids be invited for that purpose.

Judge Lewis, vacating the chair, and calling Commissioner Hack to preside, in a powerful and excoriating speech, supported this motion. He took occasion to review the political career of the Bulletin, and the present apparent and actual proprietors. He compared it to the walking skeleton of a dog, with a mangy, rotten hide pulled over it. He was particularly severe on Hough, who, he said, not long ago, put down his name for $100 to assist the Republican cause, but when called upon to "come down with his dust," refused to do so, because he had not been appointed to office by them. His speech was a regular "hider," and must have been refreshing on so warm a day as yesterday was.

Commissioner Merriman then offered the following as an amendment to the substitute:

Resolved, That this Board employ no public printer except for special work.

The amendment was accepted, and the Commissioners proceeded to vote on the amendment and substitute.

On the amendment: Ayes—Merriman, White and Hack; nays, Lewis and Louis. Carried.

On the substitute: Ayes—Lewis, White, Hack and Louis. Merriman was excused from voting. Carried.

Several appropriations were then made, and after issuing the following order the Board adjourned:

Ordered, That the Sheriff be ordered to put Mr. Powers in full possession of the office, books, furniture, and other property pertaining to the office of County Trustee.

THE TRUSTEESHIP.

Wickersham Again.

On Saturday (as our readers have been advised by the morning press), Wickersham was dodging the officers of the law who were after him trying to bring him up to "face the music" of the gentlemen who were on his bond. Not appearing at the appointed time on Saturday, and a second time failing to keep his word, Mr. J. J. Powers, the present incumbent, and one of his bondsmen, caused a writ of embezzlement to be gotten out, by 'Squire Foley, for his arrest, charging that he had embezzled $50,000, and then tried to abscond. This writ was served, after long hunting, for the auburn-haired youth about 11 o'clock Saturday night When brought before the Sheriff, he promised most faithfully to be on hand, promptly, Monday morning, and display to the anxious gaze of his bondsmen a certain box, which was then safely locked up in the vaults of the Jackson Insurance Company. On this promise, instead of having him locked up as should have been done, he was allowed to rest with Mr. Woodward, acting Deputy Sheriff. Sunday intervened and nothing was done. Yesterday morning, however, at an early hour, learning that Mr. Powers had attached his property, real and personal, and among the latter the box which he said was in those vaults, and contained the balance that he owed the county and his bondsmen, he promised the attorneys of his bondsmen to meet them at 4 o'clock at 'Squire Griffith's and there open the box. Four o'clock came and with it no Wickersham, and time slipped on until nearly five o'clock, when the Sheriff was sent after him and brought him into court. We wish that space would allow us to give a picture of the courtroom, for we assure the reader it was a rich scene—scalawag Griffith rearing spread-eagle fashion—Wickersham in the prisoner's docket, weeping crocodile tears, with his red head all ablaze, and the excited knot of bondsmen with their able counsel giving fits to all hands on the other side. The end of the whole thing was putting Wickersham under $50,000 bonds to appear at two o'clock.

If there was any doubt on the minds of all who listened to and looked on that Wickersham had acted the scoundrel it was dispelled when he refused to "open that box." We will give a little photograph of the proceedings to-morrow.

AT THE request of J. L. Sharp, Esq, Foreman of the Grand Jury, we publish the following letter of Mr. McLefresh:

MEMPHIS, TENN., July 10, 1868.

To the Grand Jury, Municipal Court of Memphis:

Gents: Upon reading over my card in this morning's papers, I fear some may construe it as casting reflections upon the rest of the Grand Jury. Now I beg leave to say to them and the public, that such was not the case, as I believe they have all acted conscientiously and as they believed to be right, from the instructions they had received, and the evidence before them. Asking that this may be published in justice to your honorable body and myself, I remain, etc,

CHANCERY COURT—Wm. M. Smith, Chancellor—This Court stands adjourned until Friday next, on which day the minutes will be signed and an adjournment had to court in course.

A large number of orders and decrees were entered on yesterday and will be published to-morrow.

MUNICIPAL COURT—Geo. W. Waldran, Judge.—But little was done in this court on yesterday, in consequence of the report that Judge Waldran had been enjoined from acting as Judge of the Court, which report, however, was incorrect. To-day an informal call of the law docket will be had. All appeals, when called, will be either affirmed or dismissed where no attorney has been marked on the docket to represent either plaintiff or defendant. By order of the Court, motion day will be Friday of each week.

Garnishees will be required to answer to-day. The Grand Jury (criminal side) will be discharged to-day, after making their final report. By order of the Court, a special term of the Court (criminal side) will commence on the 17th day of August next.

All parties out on bonds must appear in Court and renew the same on or before Wednesday next, or forfeitures will be taken against them and a capias issued for their arrest.

Among the numerous indictments found by the present Grand Jury, there are ten against P. S. Simonds, Captain of Metropolitan Police, for engaging in a game called "keno."

CRIMINAL COURT—Wm. Hunter Judge.—An examination was had, but not concluded, on yesterday, in the case of the State vs. Wm. Wash, F. Chambers, Ed. Allen, P. Thomas. The case was continued over to Monday next. The defendants were arrested on a bench warrant. They are charged with being Ku Klux, and with committing an assault upon a negro.

To-day the trial of murder cases will commence. Several cases have been specially-set for trial.

LAW COURT—James O. Pierce, Judge. The cases set for trial to-day are: 718, 719, 720, 721, 722, 723, 724, 725, 726, 727, 728, 729, 730, 731, 732, 733, 734, 735, 736, 737, 738, 739, 740.

MISCELLANEOUS.

We sometime ago stated that Capt. Bill Thompson might take charge of the R. E. Lee at no distant day. Randall, of the St. Louis Times, and "Our Sam," of the Republican, are throwing dirt at each other about the paragraph. All we have to add is that we know of no better man or more capable officer that could be selected, than Capt. Bill, to command the Lee or any other fine packet.

We have been requested to say that the name of the recently organized "De-Soto Boat Club" has been changed to the "Chickasaw Boat Club." This has been rendered necessary by the fact that an older club exists under the former name, which as yet has not been in practice. The new club have at present but one boat, the "Gertrude," which they use for practice, but will soon have one which will "walk the waters like a thing of life."

Our cotemporary, R. A. Thompson, has been elected President of the Young Men's Seymour Club, of Memphis. Several of Duff's Brigade talk of seceding and enrolling under the flag of Thompson.

The Marble City, Capt. Conway, will be in port to leave on Thursday for St. Louis.

The reliable U. S. mail packet Commercial, Capt. Wm. Ashford, came in yesterday with a good trip, and leaves to-day for all points on White river. She connects at Devall's Bluff with the Little Rock train. Charley Smithers is clerk.

The Minneola leaves for Cairo and Cincinati on Wednesday evening. She is light draught, and will not be detained en route. Capt. Miller is master.

The fine steamer Mollie Hambleton, Capt. Tom Bowman, with Paine, Clark and Shell in the office, backs out to-day for the St. Francis and all way landings.

In looking over our exchanges a day or two ago, we met with a descriptive paragraph which it occurred to us would fit a certain offshoot of scalawagism who perambulates our levee almost daily. It was an admirably correct picture for the pen, and as we could not better it and keep the resemblance, we inserted it whole. That it was a full and complete presentment of the youth we had in our mind's eye, no better proof could be adduced than that he felt very sore about it, and brought forth the evidence that San Francisco is afflicted with a similar cuss. We pity our California brethren.

The Milbrey, which made some reputation here as an unfortunate steamer, has been put in repair at Paducah. To the eye of the reporter of the Kentuckian, she looks "beautiful."

The Swallow passed up last night.

The Ozark had a good trip for the Arkansas.

The W. A. Caldwell, Capt. Haynes, leaves for the Arkansas on Thursday next. She carries the U. S. mail.

Capt. Wm. Knowland is in command of the Ozark. We learn that her recent repairs at Cincinnati cost $8500.

The Celeste goes on the docks at Cincinnati.

The Iberville South of the 10th inst. says: On Sunday last the Alone left our town via Bayou Plaquemine, with a fine cargo for the Bayou Teche. Her trip through the Plaquemine and into the Sorrel was safely made. The current in the latter stream is at present very rapid, and in spite of the efforts of the pilot, the boat came in contact with a "sawyer" for some time no danger made itself apparent; but it was after awhile discovered that the hull was rapidly filling. Efforts were made to keep down the water, but without avail, and in a few minutes the boat sank to the bottom, having, however, been previously ran near enough to shore to allow all the passengers and crew to reach land in perfect safety. The cargo consisted mainly of a lot of carts and wagons recently brought from the West and destined for sale in the Attakapas and Opelousas country.

And whereas, in order to secure and save harmless the said John Overton, Thomas Bibb, S. C. Brinkley and A. F. Hopkins by said James W. Pryor and Catherine M. Pryor, his wife, by their deed dated May 1, 1856, upon Trust; that in case a majority of the beneficiaries in said indenture of Trust mentioned should direct a sale of said premises, then the said Charles Kortrecht was thereby authorized and instructed to sell said premises, at public auction, in the city of Memphis, State of Tennessee, after giving sixty days notice in one or more of the newspapers published in said city of Memphis, of the time and place of said sale, said sale to be made for cash or credit, as a majority of the beneficiaries in the said indenture of Trust named might direct, and out of the proceeds of said sale to pay said accommodation bills and drafts above aforesaid, and to pay the remainder, if any, over to said Arthur M. Hopkins, as will appear by reference to said Trust Deed, recorded in the Register's office of Cook county, Illinois, in Book 210 of Deeds, page 242.

And whereas, default has been made in the payment of said accommodation bills and notes, and application has been made and a sale of said premises, for cash, has been directed by a majority of said beneficiaries in said indenture of Trust named, for the purpose of carrying out said Trust; now, therefore, public notice is hereby given, that I will, on

MEMPHIS APPEAL.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

OFFICE OF THE DAILY APPEAL,
MEMPHIS, July 13, 1868.

The Money market is very little changed since our last. There is some increase in the demand for assistance coming from our commission houses in order to help the planter to make the present crop, and we are glad to learn that some of our banks are disposed to be as generous as possible. We hope that those who are being thus carried through the season will come forward promptly with their cotton when it is made, and thus enable those who have advanced them the means to meet their own obligations. Planters, as well as small merchants, in town or country, who suffer their credit to be impaired among the jobbers or manufacturers with whom they deal, or who do not take early and active measures to restore it if it has suffered, make a most serious mistake. They fancy often that they gain something in the length of time to which they draw out their payments; when thirty days is allowed to creep into sixty or ninety, when two months increase to four, or five months drag along into a year, before settlement can be effected. The mistake made is in acquiring and retaining the reputation for slowness, for unreliability, which prevents their buying goods of any kind at the best market rates. It is generally only a question of time about such a purchaser going down. He cannot pay interest and the higher prices consequent upon poor credit, and compete with those who take the opposite course, and who are prompt and require promptness in others. Upon no considerations of apparent present expediency should a planter suffer his credit to fall- if he hopes to be successful. Jobbers prefer to furnish a prompt man with supplies at the smallest fraction above cost, rather than a slow one at a large per centage above.

Gold has tended upward during the week with only light transactions in this market. The New York quotations for the week opened at 140⅜, and gradually went up to 141⅞, at which it closed this evening. We quote sales of small amounts at 139 to 140; selling at 140½ to 141.

The following are the closing New York quotations on Governments: Coupons, '81, 13½; do '62, 13½; do '64, 10½; do '65, 11½; new issue, 8½; do '67, 8½; 10-40s, 7½; 7-30s, 2d and 3d, 8⅜; Old Tennessees, 71; new do 70.

Local stocks and bonds are in good demand, though we have but one transaction to report to-day. Seventy shares of Memphis Gas Company Stock was purchased at $150 per share. Railroad securities are generally firm but nominal. We quote as follows: Mississippi Central, 1st mortgage bonds, 58@; 2d do. 40@. Mississippi and Tennessee, 1st mortgage bonds, 50@. Memphis and Charleston stock, 85@. Memphis and Louisville, 1st mortgage bonds, 30 to 31@; 2d do. 20@. Memphis and Little Rock bonds, 40@. Memphis City bonds, 56 to 58@.

City Scrip is quiet with little or no speculative demand. A lot was offered during the day at 76@, but brokers were not disposed to buy at over 75@. They sell in small lots at 78 to 80@.

County Warrants are down to 50@ buying, at which $1000 was sold to-day by a broker.

Police Scrip dull and irregular; buying at 70 to 73@; selling at 75 to 80@.

Rates of Exchange remain steady, with a fair supply of Eastern: buying at par to ¼ premium; selling at ⅜ premium.

The new Tax law on manufactories embraces several important features not generally well understood. The Revenue Department says in reference to the matter:

Under the former law the tax on manufactures accrued when they were sold, used or consumed by the manufacturer or delivered to others than the manufacturer. Under the present law, manufacturers are not required to pay the tax of $2 per $100 on goods manufactured and used or consumed by them, or on goods manufactured and delivered to the parties who furnished the materials, no sale being made by or for the manufacturer. But sales made by or for the manufacturer, whether made at the place of manufacture or elsewhere, are to be returned for taxation on or before the tenth day of the month succeeding the quarter in which they were made. Under the present law manufacturers in making their returns of sales need not be required to state all the items as formerly on blank form No. 3, but may make the return of sales made by or for them on blank form No. 6.

The European Cotton market has been quite steady since our last. The opening Liverpool dispatch of to-day quoted that market quiet; Uplands, 11½ to 11¾d; Orleans, 11¾ to 11¾d. There was no change up to the close. Sales 10,000 bales. The New York market opened quiet but steady, with Middlings 32½c, and closed with an active export demand; Middlings 32 to 32½c. The sales for the week ending Friday last in Liverpool amounted to 71,000 bales against 56,000 for the preceding week. Stock 882,000 bales, of which 341,000 were American, against a total stock for the previous week of 603,000 bales, of which 353,000 were American—a falling off in total stock of 21,000 bales, and of American 12,000 bales. Stock afloat on Friday last 112,000 bales, of which 25,000 were American. Receipts at all United States ports for the week ending Saturday last, 3000 bales. In our market there has been but a light demand and few sales. The largest list upon the market will probably not exceed 26 bales. Eight bales of Low Middlings were taken to-day at 28½c, while 10 or 12 bales of barely Middlings, in one lot, were held at 30c, with 29½c offered. We quote the market quiet with prices nominal.

Wholesale Market.

The weather during the past week has been somewhat diversified. We have had several showers of rain, only one or two of which however were of enough magnitude to benefit the crops to any extent. Rains have been very general all over the country, and we hear of no complaints now in regard to the drouth, which only a few days ago bid fair to cut short the crop of Corn and Cotton. Several Cotton bales have been received since our last review, and the impression prevails that the new crop will come in at least 10 or 15 days earlier than usual. Our sister State of Arkansas has been especially favored by Providence. Along the Arkansas and White rivers the crops are represented to be in splendid condition. A committee, appointed by our Chamber of Commerce, departed yesterday to attend the Convention at Bristol, in this State. Direct trade is the object aimed at, and the establishment of a line of steamers from Norfolk to Liverpool. This is a matter of very great importance, and we shall lay the proceedings of the Convention before the readers of the APPEAL, at the very earliest moment.

There has been more animation this week in the general markets. Meats, which early in the week were dull, have become excited and advanced materially. A lot of Mess Pork, from Peoria, was closed out on the landing to-day at $29 25, and a lot of Clear Sides, from the same place, sold at 17¼c, but small orders from the interior are filled at our quotations below. The produce market is also active—choice Apples are in brisk demand for shipment. Potatoes are dull. The Northern crop is being sent to market so that there is none shipping from here. Corn is firm, several hundred sacks were sold upon the landing to-day. Oats are coming in slowly. There is no difference between the old and new crops, so far as quotations are concerned. The receipts of Wheat are better, but still unequal to the local demand, our mills being in operation. The City Mills of A. L. Harris & Co. commenced yesterday, and are turning out some of the best Flour ever seen in this market. This firm are ready purchasers of all the choice Wheat which finds its way into this city at the very highest market rates. Three hundred sacks of No. 1 was taken by them yesterday at $1 90, and 125 sacks No. 2 at $1 75 to 1 80. Flour is rather dull and irregular, with only a hand to mouth trade doing.

The Dry Goods trade is dull. Brown Muslins have advanced 1 to 1½c; bleached 1c; dark Prints, new style, firm at 13½ to 14½c. A steady upward tendency may be looked for until after the early fall season, when prices will again be regulated. Stocks in general well supplied, with a demand for staple goods only.

The Boot and Shoe trade is quiet. Prices are firm but not higher than last week. New stocks will arrive during the next few days.

The Stock market, as usual at this season is dull, and prices are irregular.
